WHAT READERS SAY:

"Who knows your every secret? Who follows you around without your knowledge? Who is targeting your kids so they can identify potential high fliers to derail them? Who is the enemy within? Find out in American Stasi. Prepare to have your world shaken." — A reader from Britain

"American Stasi is a groundbreaking investigation into cancerous growth infesting western nations, the domestic surveillance networks that operate above the law. This book will be read 100 years from now"

— A reader from Finland

"Surveillance is everywhere! Watching and manipulating your actions. This book helps you understand who, where and why." — A reader from Midwest America

"A monumental expose. Global and granular in scope, American Stasi contains the most crucial information patriots need to make sense of the omnipresent surveillance in their own personal lives." — A reader from Suburban America

"Everything you have been taught is a lie. Do you want the truth? Can you handle the truth? Read American Stasi and find out." — A reader from Asia

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN ARE TARGETS OF THE AMERICAN STASI

You and your children are targeted, your lives limited, by someone who works for the American Secret Police. Modeled after the East German Stasi, their operation assigned them to live in a house in your neighborhood, pretend to be just another resident, and use elite surveillance technologies to listen in everyone's houses, from backdoors in Alexas and smart TVs, to elite thru-wall microwave eavesdropping and imagery technology. They're assigned a block of citizens in the neighborhood to watch in their homes, from bathroom trips, to private conversations, to intimate moments between spouses.

This is the American Stasi. Created by global elites and modeled on the East German Stasi, it makes sure you and your children are controlled, and can't succeed wildly, run for office, become elite yourself, and see the corruption and criminality up there, where their corrupt actors are looting our government.

The elites cannot possibly allow regular Americans to ever see that. The American Stasi makes sure they don't. We don't explain the entire conspiracy. We show one part — the massive surveillance machine watching everyone. Once you see that, with your own eyes, you'll realize the rest must exist.

We use photography from Google Streetview to teach you surveillance detection. We begin in Russia, where you'll watch Russian domestic surveillance follow the Google car, in the Google car's own Streetview photos. We then go to Bulgaria and show you real Bulgarian surveillance, explaining why they do everything they do. Once you're trained in surveillance detection, we return to America, where you'll see more surveillance following the Google car, than in Russia or Bulgaria. With that training you will soon see your own surveillance watching your community — and you.

Then, NSA's head of technology, Bill Binney describes the microwave radiation he detected which this operation is pouring through all neighborhoods — and how the cancer which killed his wife likely came from that. You'll see the website he and other whistleblowers created warning of these radiations, BiggerThanSnowden.com, which the government forcibly shut down.

You're helpless, being thwarted, and exposed to cancer-causing radiation you can't see. This book will change that.

Equal parts Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes, Ian Fleming's James Bond, and the Pentagon Papers, this book uses simple observation and deductive reasoning with open-source, independent data to reveal incontrovertible evidence of the biggest scandal the world will ever see — the massive global Secret Police created by Western elites in the shadows, using supposedly fellow citizens all around us, to make sure no citizen like yourself can ever challenge them for power.

The Domestic Surveillance Targeting You And Your Children

BY MICHAEL TRUST

The budget of the US Intelligence Community and the FBI for FY 2025 is over 110 times the annual budget of the East German Stasi. ($112.9 billion, vs $1 billion)

The Stasi's sole purpose was to preserve the Party's power, serving as the "Shield and Sword of the Party," similar to the FBI protecting the Deepstate today.

Former President of Germany Joachim Gauck, estimated 8% of East German citizens spied on their neighbors for the Stasi, including 10,000 children of Stasi agents under age 18, identified by historians, who spied on other children in the schools for their files.

The Stasi system combined citizen-spies and eavesdropping in homes, with each Stasi officer using that to build files for roughly 166 citizens assigned to him. All citizens, including children, were periodically surveilled, had a neighbor-spy listening in their homes, and had a file.

Some agents were assigned to marry targets, as in the case of peace activist Vera Lengsfeld, whose husband, Knud Wollenberger, was a Stasi agent.

The Stasi would order its citizen-agents to overtly surveil and harass certain citizens, a practice called Zersetzung (translated, decomposition). The government and its media denied any such a program existed, deriding the victims as mentally ill.

In 2016 The New York Times estimated over 10,000 Americans had joined online communities "organized around the conviction that its members are victims of a sprawling conspiracy to harass thousands of everyday Americans with... armies of so-called gang-stalkers."

The United States government denies such a program could exist in America, just as they would deny having agents listening in your house, despite spending over 110 times as much on spying as the Stasi.
